

Emie aims for Swede smell of success at film festival

■ EVA-MARIE ELG – started making films at the age of seven

ISLINGTON People

EVA-MARIE Elg, known as Emie, made her first film at the age of seven and is now hoping to walk away with a prize at a film festival.

The 24-year-old Swedish filmmaker, who has lived in Parkhurst Road, Holloway, for three and a half years, will be showing her locally produced short film, Recognize Myself, at the Nørdisk Panorama Film Festival in Oulu, Finland, in September.

Recognize Myself will form part of the new competition programme New Nordic Voices, which introduces promising Nordic filmmakers.

Emie said: "Islington is a good place to live and it's a huge inspiration. London is such a big city but people can still be lonely. Recognize Myself is mostly shot in my bedroom in Holloway."

– DUNCAN HEPBURN